Open Access, Open Science & IEEE

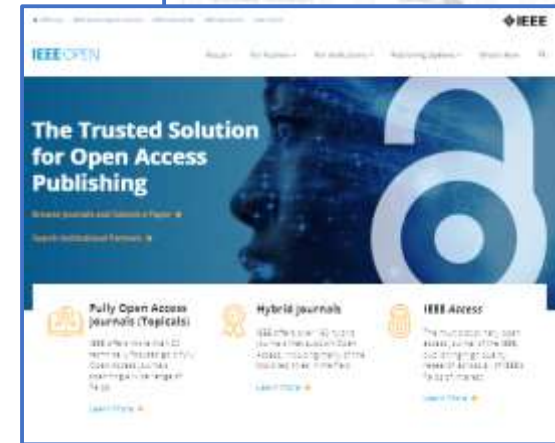

IEEE's Evolving Open Access Program

To help authors gain maximum exposure for their groundbreaking research and application-oriented articles, IEEE offers three options for open access (OA) publishing, all designed to meet the varying needs of our authors throughout their careers.

OA Publishing Options

1. Hybrid Journals—160 journals and magazines spanning an array of technology fields
2. Fully Open Access Topical Journals—20+ titles and more coming soon
3. Multidisciplinary OA journal—IEEE Access
 - IEEE's largest open access journal, over 50,000 articles since 2013
 - Highly cited journal in a range of fields
 - Rapid yet rigorous peer review process of 4 to 6 weeks.

With the above options for authors, IEEE has published over 80,000 open access articles in IEEE Xplore.

Some key points of the HEAL Link agreement:

Read: 2022-2024

- IEEE All-Society Periodicals Package (ASPP) (backfile from 2005)
- IEEE Proceedings Orders Plans (POP) (backfile from 2005)

Publish: 2022-2024 (currently working on order): Publish 180 APCs in IEEE Gold or Hybrid journals

- Eligible Author: corresponding author who is affiliated with a HEAL Link Institution, (based on RINGGOLD or email domain)
- Eligible costs: Only open access charges are covered by the agreement. Color and over-length charges are not included and must be paid by the authors.
- Eligible Journals title list: <https://open.ieee.org/publishing-options/ieee-title-list/>

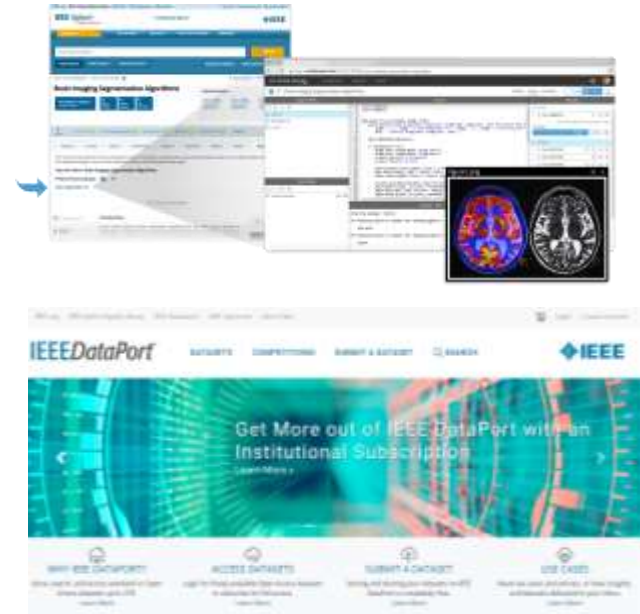

IEEE Supports Open Science and Reproducible Research

In addition to the full-text article, users also want access to data and research artifacts to try to reproduce the results and see if the hypothesis holds. So IEEE introduced:

- Code Ocean – Allows authors to publish code or algorithms associated with research articles in a computable environment and linked to IEEE Xplore. Authors can upload code free of charge and users can access code without a subscription.
- IEEE DataPort – Enables authors to publish large data sets associated with their research. Institutional subscription options now available offering many benefits that help institutions comply with funding agency requirements and maintain best practices for data management, storage, while providing other researchers with access to your data.
- TechRxiv – IEEE launched a new Preprint Server for Engineering and Technology, a service that lets authors post early and fully open versions of their articles, prior to peer review and prior to being published.

These enhancements improve the extent we can help researchers communicate the value of their research by facilitating the communication and availability of their research findings online.

How IEEE Can Help

Dauer: 60 Min.

Librarians and administrators need regular updates on new features and functionality, so they can answer questions and demonstrate IEEE Xplore to their community. This customized session will keep you current on the latest updates to the IEEE Xplore platform, including an overview of new content and features, ensuring that your subscription works with your library systems, fine-tuning your discovery tool, customizing the home page for your institution, remote access, usage statistics and other tools. We also ensure that you have the right promotional content to share with your researchers.

How to find a topic for my thesis?

Dauer: 45 Min.

This session will help bachelor and master students in engineering fields to find interesting topics for their thesis by leveraging IEEE Xplore and other IEEE sites and will help to discover current literature and trends in those topics.

Patent Searching Best Practices with IEEE Xplore

Dauer: 60 Min.

Many IEEE Xplore customers will be working with patents at some point in their career, so this session will review how to effectively use IEEE Xplore for patent research. Topics include identifying prior art, summary of patentability, patent claims and their relevancy to a search, constructing a search strategy, author searching, and other useful IEEE Xplore tools that link users to patents.

Publishing open access articles with the IEEE

Dauer: 60 Min.

Attend this informative webinar, which will review the opportunities authors have to enhance the visibility and impact of their research by publishing in the many open access options available from IEEE.
