

GEORGE ANASTASIOS MAVROS

631-983-7340 · Georgemavros34@gmail.com · 231 46th Street, Lindenhurst, New York, 11757

PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

Honors undergraduate double-majoring in Political Science and Criminology & Criminal Justice, with minors in Greek and Classical Civilization at The University of Alabama. Maintains a 4.0 GPA with consecutive placement on the President's List. Current research focuses on the constitutional and cultural effects of the Constitutio Antoniniana on Greek identity in the Eastern Roman world in preparation for a CAMWS research submission. Academic interests include Roman constitutional history, Greek identity and culture, and the political development of the Eastern Roman world. Strong background in historical and legal research, primary-source analysis, academic writing, and public presentation.

EDUCATION

The University of Alabama | Tuscaloosa, AL

Bachelor of Arts in Criminology & Criminal Justice and Political Science | August 2025 – Present

- Academic Standing: Honors College student maintaining a 4.0 institutional GPA.
- Honors & Awards: Consecutive placement on the President's List
- Minors: Greek and Classical Civilization.
- Campus Involvement: Active member in the Classics Club and the Greek and Roman History Book Club.
- Academic Focus: Classical scholarship, Roman and Greek history, political institutions, and historical literature.

RESEARCH

The Classical Association of the Middle West and South (CAMWS)

Current Research Project | Spring 2026 – Present

- Project Scope: Examines the evolution of Greek identity during the Hellenistic and Roman imperial periods, specifically focusing on the transition from cultural self-identification as Hellenes to the civic/political designation Rhomaioi.
- Methodology: Employs rigorous historiographical analysis of primary sources alongside contemporary secondary scholarship to evaluate how legal, political, and cultural structures shaped shifting identities in the Eastern Mediterranean.
- Faculty Mentorship: Conducted under the direct academic mentorship of Dr. Kindick.
- Status: Project is actively in progress and being developed for formal abstract submission and presentation at CAMWS

EXPERIENCE

Target | Copiague, NY

Fulfillment Specialist | November 2024 – August 2025

- Workflow Management: Managed rapid workflows and cross-functional tasks under tight deadlines at the region's busiest, highest-performing location.
- Autonomous Oversight: Demonstrated strong self-direction and reliability by independently overseeing entire sectors of the store without direct managerial supervision.
- Problem Solving: Utilized efficient communication and conflict-resolution skills to navigate a high-volume environment and de-escalate customer service issues.
- Compliance: Maintained strict adherence to corporate regulatory policies and safety codes.