

PressReader for Libraries and Institutions

PressReader is a place for students to find, share, and talk about great content from anywhere in the world. With it, educational outlets can bring daily newspapers and magazines to students that gets them talking and keeps learners engaged.

discovery

Global content,
one subscription –
7,000+ titles from 120+ countries in 60+ languages.

Daily newspapers and magazines in a variety of subjects – Social Sciences,
Art, Culture, Current Events, Business, Politics and more.

experience

Available on any device
and platform – anywhere, anytime.

Content can be displayed as both a full digital enhanced replica, or in text view. Content is daily, which is different than most traditional academic resources.

It's a truly personalized experience. Users can research and set subjects that are relevant to their information and research needs.

PressReader reaches readers in every country around the world and our stories can be instantly translated into up to 18 different languages.

12
minutes

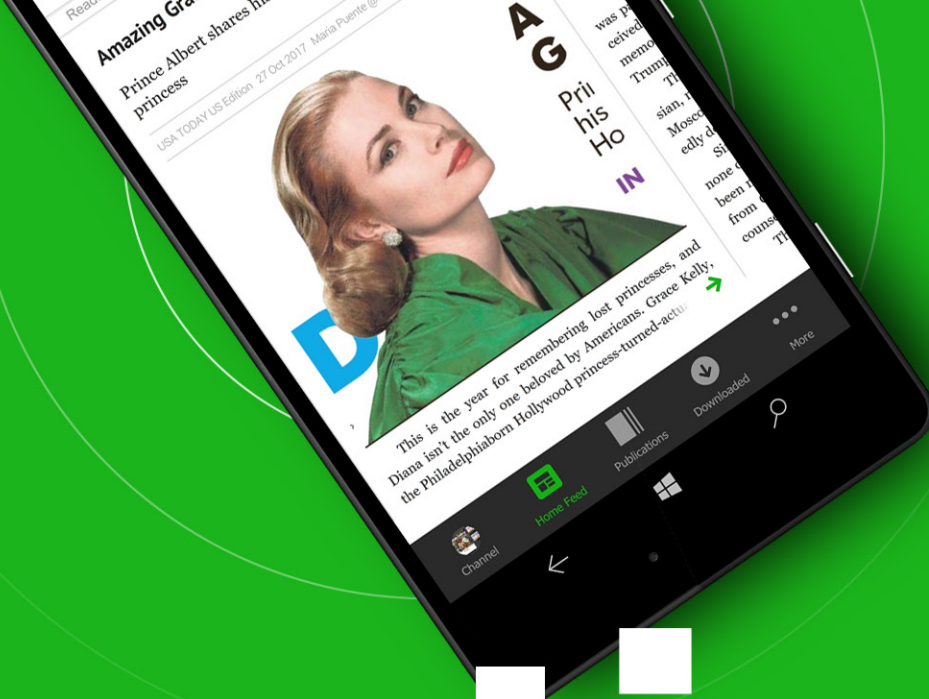

Our app readers spent an average of 12 minutes per session (Jan-Jun 2017)

60
minutes

Over 15% of our app readers spent an average of 60 minutes per session (Jan-Jun 2017)

engagement

Robust search, instant translation and the ability for faculty or the institution to curate content or share original content which helps build lasting connections with all of its learners.

innovation

PressReader provides tools to curate, share and self-publish which further engages students while complementing the traditional learning experience.

How we give students access

Through email

Using a student's email which is issued by the School or the educational institution

Optional 1

IP Authentication for each and every school that has wifi

Optional 2

URL Referral, behind a secured sign on

