*Prices already include package discounts.

We endeavor to make our eBook packages as transparent as possible. The final package price is based on the discounted list price of the titles contained in the package. Experience has shown that some deviation from the originally announced title list is to be expected over the course of the year. We shall therefore be working with title lists containing placeholders that reflect the titles that may be added to or subtracted from each package. We hope this will allow us to give a more precise description of the packages and thus avoid unnecessary additional charges or credit notes. You will receive a final list of titles included in the eBook package, together with an up-to-date package price, at the beginning of the following year. For any deviations that arise as a result of this system, we will make an additional charge of up to 5% or issue a credit note of up to 15% at the beginning of the following year.
