Receive funding for global urbanism events and activities

As cities around the world grow in population, global urbanism is becoming increasingly important in resolving global issues. The Rutgers' Centers for Global Advancement and International Affairs (GAIA Centers) is pleased to announce the 2015–2017 biennial theme: Global Urbanism! From inequality to technology, economies to human rights, arts to health, environment to dramatic population changes, cities present us with a wide variety of issues and opportunities. The new biennial theme also hits close to home: Rutgers is comprised of three culturally diverse locations in three of New Jersey's largest cities, making the university both academically and geographically positioned to become a leader in the field. The GAIA Centers are awarding funding to units and student groups who wish to conduct activities related to the 2015–2017 biennial theme.
